

Basketball Skills Development

Tim Ahn
Basketball Skills Development Trainer
3 year High School Varsity Starting Point Guard
Division 3 College Starting Point Guard

As an Asian-American basketball player who grew up in California and went to school in Brunswick, ME. Tim brings a unique set of skills and experiences. With over 5 years of training experience, he continues to develop players physically and professionally as they navigate their young teenage years.

Tim aspires to increase Asian-American representation in the basketball community. He hopes bringing awareness to the intangible benefits of playing basketball will encourage young Asian-Americans to take up the sport. Despite his parents enrolling him in piano and Taekwondo lessons, Tim fell in love with basketball after watching the late Kobe Bryant play every night. Since then, he has continued to play competitive basketball throughout elementary/middle/high school and received a scholarship to play at Bowdoin College. Looking back at his career, he recognizes the pivotal role basketball has played in shaping his life. In addition to the physical benefits of playing basketball, the sport has taught him valuable lessons including how to:

- Become a leader
- Be assertive and vocal
- Work well on a team
- Develop a good work ethic
- Live a healthy lifestyle
- Deal with adversity

All levels of experience are welcome. Workouts are tailored to each player’s aptitude

1 Hour Private Lessons: $40
